

Electrical Package for Associated trades

What is it

This course is a mix of both theory and practical training with the emphasis on the Inspecting, testing, Certification, results and registrations of domestic electrical installations. On successful completion you will have gained qualifications in both the BS7671-17th Edition wiring regulations and Domestic Electrical installer.

Who is it for

This course has been designed for industry professionals from associated trades such as; Plumbers, Kitchen fitters, Bathroom fitters, Gas engineers, Maintenance people, Builders etc. Trade professionals that install electrical installations as part of their work but then have to get an Electrician in to certify and register the installations. It is not designed to take a new to industry person and make them a domestic electrician.

What is the outcome

On successful completion of this course you will be able to register with a competent person scheme such as NICEIC as a domestic installer and complete your certification and registrations.

Duration...

We run this course over 8 consecutive weeks on a Friday, 8:30-4:30 and must attend all days to be entered for the assessments.
